

Greetings,

My name is Tim Radelj Remic and I'm a graphic designer focused on branding and designing and building beautiful websites.

I have two degrees, both in the broad field of multimedia, with a focus on graphic design. I am currently enrolled in a master's programme but I chose to forgo yet another degree to follow my real passion – real projects with real people.

Throughout the last 4 years, in which I have been actively pursuing work in the industry, I've found that real experience is invaluable. I'm self taught in many things, so I appreciate the constant need for learning and improvement. On a professional level, I've mastered Adobe Photoshop, Adobe Illustrator, Adobe InDesign and Adobe XD. I'm also proficient in video editing in Adobe Premiere Pro and product photography.

A couple of years ago, I began building and managing an online store for myself and with it, I learned two things; I'm not that great at, or enthusiastic about, selling jewelry, but designing and building websites fascinates me. Especially websites dealing with ecommerce. I view them as not only a product that truly puts all the knowledge and experience I've amassed through the years into practice but they are, in my opinion, one of the most flexible design fields out there.

I've reached a high level of proficiency in WordPress. I mainly use Elementor and WooCommerce to create fully functional and completely custom designed websites.

I have an advanced knowledge of English and it allows me to write great copy for clients that need some help. I also own a YouTube channel (the channel's name is Reialesa) where I post videos regarding design and development.

If you value thorough, beautiful design, I would absolutely love to work with you.

Thank you for your time and with all best wishes,

Tim Radelj Remic
